

Speech Students Host St. Patrick's Day Celebration

Students in Lori Kissinger's COMM 2200 Fundamentals of Communication class received the opportunity to host a Saint Patrick's Day party for young adults with disabilities. The students collaborated with Very Special Arts (VSA) Tennessee, a nonprofit organization that serves individuals with disabilities through the arts. Nearly 50 young adults with disabilities attended the event which took place on March 13 on MTSU's campus. In preparation for the event, the class planned games, crafts, and dancing. The students were looking at how to communicate with individuals with various disabilities, communication barriers, and ways of adaptation.
